1. [redacted] Mary Dooley on the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee staff, Judiciary Committee, called me again this morning to see what I had found out about [redacted] I told her that we were still checking, but had been unable thus far to identify a [redacted] who would fit the description she gave. A few minutes later she called back to say that somewhere along the way Mr. Jay Sourwine's (Chief Counsel of the Subcommittee) message had gotten twisted. She said he had asked that they contact CIO, not CIA. She was embarrassed by the mistake and said to forget the call.

3. [redacted] Jane McMullen of the Senate Appropriations Committee staff said they were having difficulty getting a copy of Jane's Fighting Ships from the Library of Congress, and wondered if the Agency had a copy we could lend to the Committee staff for three or four months. I told her I would check on this and let her know.

4. [REDACTED] Ed Braswell, Chief Counsel, Senate Armed Services Committee, asked me to drop by and then said he would like me to check out a story that Senator Henry M. Jackson (D., Wash.) gave out at a Committee meeting regarding an Arab offer of $400 million to the Portuguese if they would terminate all U. S. rights in the Azores. I told him I would check on this and be back in touch with him. 25X1

6. (Unclassified - LLM) On referral from Mr. Thuermer, called Bill Raiford, Library of Congress, who in connection with an inquiry by "Senators" wanted information on the number of formal meetings by the Agency's four congressional oversight Committees and Agency representatives. I referred Raiford to the Committees themselves for this data and he appreciated that they should be the authoritative source. I also reviewed the definitional problem in connection with oversight explaining that there is almost daily contact with these Committees, with members or through the staff structure, and suggested that he might wish to review some of the annual reports, particularly House Armed Services Committee reports, which I believe made much of this subject. Raiford believes that the sparse information recorded in Legislative Calendars, etc., does not give the full picture of the Committee's oversight dealings with the Agency and I suggested that if after contacting the Committee staffers, whom I identified, he believed he still did not have a balanced picture to give us a call which he said he would do.

7. (Unclassified - LLM) Spoke with Mrs. Doty, clerk, Subcommittee on Foreign Operations and Government Information, House Government Operations Committee, to inform her that an edited version of Mr. Colby's 1 August testimony would be in her hands today but without two inserts for the record which we hoped to get up to her some time tomorrow. She said this would be fine.
